Conservation Booklets Available

The Robert E. Lee Soil and Water Conservation District will spearhead a drive to get better environment booklets distributed to youngsters in the elementary schools. Nine different conservation booklets have been published by the Soil Conservation Society of America. The latest publication is "Sharing the Earth" which is an ecology story. Another booklet is "Working Together For A Livable Land" which deals with pollution. Others include "The Story of Land," "The Wonder of Water," "Help Keep Our Land Beautiful," and "Making A Home For Wildlife." Also, "Plants - How They Improve Our Environment," and "The Earth - Our Home in Space." Each of these booklets are very interesting as well as educational. Teacher's Guides are available for each set of booklets.

The District is soliciting the various civic groups, garden clubs, etc. who may want to donate booklets. Also, the back cover of all booklets is left blank so business sponsors may imprint their own message thus combining advertising with public service. In lots of 1000 or more booklets would cost about 10c each. Back page advertising will cost about an extra $5.00 per 1000.

For further details please contact the Robert E. Lee Conservation District Office, P. O. Box 248, Appomattox or phone 352-5610.

$113 Million In Contract Awards

The Babcock & Wilcox Company has received contract awards totaling $113 million from the Energy Research and Development Administration, it was announced today.

B&W said that the new orders are for construction of nuclear compoinents for the Navy's Nuclear Propulsion Program. Currently included among the nuclear powered craft are submarines and aircraft carriers as well as surface escort ships.

B&W officials said that the contracts called for the supply of components through 1981. The work for these contracts will be performed at the Company's Naval Nuclear Fuel Division inLynchburg, Virginia.

ADULT FARMER CLASSES - Thirty-four adult and young farmers from Pamplin and Appomattox participated in a class last week on "Controling External Parasites in Dairy, Beef, and Swine." This is one of the ten instructional meetings conducted during the year by the Agricultural Education Department.

Agricultural Education In Appomattox County

[Note: This is the first of a series of articles on the different agricultural education classes offered in our school system.]

Agricultural Education in the Appomattox County School System offers a large variety of courses for in-school and adult groups.

For our in-school students instruction centers around the following areas; Exploratory Agriculture, Agricultural Science and Mechanics I & II, Horticulture, Agricultural Machinery Sales and Service, and Production Agriculture. Leadership training through the FFA youth organization is an integral part of the program of every student enrolled in Agricultural Education classes.

Adult education classes center around Young Farmer classes, Adult Farmer classes, Farm Machinery Repair classes, Community Canneries, and specialized courses in Horticulture and Agricultural related machanics.

Emphasis this week is on Production Agriculture. The related pictures emphasize what's happening now in adult and in-school production agriculture classes.

YOUNG FARMER INSTRUCTION - Norman Booth is one of 23 young men in Appomattox who are enrolled in the Appomattox Young Farmer instructional program. In addition to ten instructional units, a major portion of the program is on-farm instruction by the vo-ag teacher throughout the year.

AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTION - Fra student at ACHS, freeze brands a dairy cow a practical field work in his Agricultural Produc After getting the iron to 50 degrees below zero b ice and methol alcohol, the iron is placed on a cl hide for 55 seconds. American Best Quality Paints
you're gonna love what happens
HINT:
THE BIGGEST HEADACHE!
A good painting job often depends on the right preparation of the surface. When this is not done, you'll have the biggest headache. It is, therefore, very important to read the paint label carefully and do exactly what it states for surface preparation. Even the Best Quality paints can't adhere to or penetrate a hard semi-gloss or gloss surface. A "deglosser" is needed. Follow the directions completely. Better still, sandpaper is always more preferable. Read the label of the deglosser carefully. If sanding, remove the residue dust before painting.
If repainting a flat surface remove all dirt, grease, chalk, etc. to eliminate any film between the wall and your new paint film. Our American Paint labels very thoroughly - cover the surface preparation. We will also, of course, be happy to answer any questions you have.

victions of what I consider to be in the interest of sound, conservative and responsible government for Virginia and I believe that those same convictions are shared by the great majority of the citizens of the 18th Senatorial District.

Much of the work of the Senate is done in its committees and it has been my good fortune to be selected to serve on four committees of considerable importance to our District and the State. It is through these committees: Finance, Privileges and Elections, Courts of Justice and Agriculture, Conservation and National Resources, that much of the legislation affecting the daily lives of our people pass. I feel that I am in a position to exercise considerable influence on such legislation.

I sincerely hope that my performance in the past will merit my return to the Senate next year and I pledge my continuted adherence to integrity and responsibility in government.

Concert Set For April 5th

Cat Stevens.

The NEW VIRGINIANS are a choral-instrumental, dancing modern show troupe. They are as attractive as they are proficient in an unlikely variety of music. And the sound of the 10-piece stage band provides an unusual twist to the spectacular performances.

Kingma, who came to Virginia Tech in 1964 to teach mathematics and to put together a glee club in his spare time, went to work for General Motors after graduating from Purdue in 1959. But he never did get completely away from choral music.

As a project engineer at GM he took time to direct civic club choral groups and stage spare-time musical productions.

Even today he often serves as entertainment director of informal song leader for non-musical groups.

"Nobody has to have formal musical training to enjoy music and to sing together," he likes to say. "Just try it and you are bound to like it."

Once at Virginia Tech, Kingma began building choral music organizations such as the University had never seen. The Glee Club itself evolved into the Varsity Glee Club and Stage Band,and then the Virginia Tech Showmen. With a liberal infusion of women students, the Tech Showmen then became The NEW VIRGINIANS.

Along the way Kingma organized the 220-voice University Choir, composed of both students and townspeople who loved to sing. Also an all-female choral group evolved, along with a small mixed performing group.

But now Kingma has focused his attention on The NEW VIRGINIANS and a demanding concert schedule throughout Virginia and the east coast. Kingma's singers earlier have appeared on national television and in a variety of concerts for regional and national groups.

Behind it all is a man infused with a contagious enthusiasm, and a restless pursuit of perfection.

"We have the right medium through which to work," he tells his singers and performers," and now we are going to bring out the best in ourselves. If we are going to perform, let's do it better than it has been done before."

The April 5th concert will give you an opportunity to see how successful Kingma has been in seeking such a goal.

duced during the year. They included an update in color of the 15 year old "Teaching Johnny to Swim," produced with financing from Metropolitan Life, and separate productions of "Skilled Swimming I," and "Skilled Swimming II" which were made with the cooperation of the Sunkist Growers Association. All three productions won film awards for excellence. Also produced was a color film on artificial respiration designed for general use.

Red Cross Certificates of Merit, awarded for the saving of lives by the application of Red Cross taught skills, increased 61.4 per cent, from 164 in 1971-72 to 267 in 1972-73, as a result of emphasis by the national organization and area offices on this award.
